

WHEAT GUARANTEE HELPS ALL CROPS

Acts as a Balance That Will Sustain Present Prices on All Farm Products.

PUT THE SURPLUS INTO BONDS

Federal Reserve Board Looks to Farmer for a Generous Support of the Coming Victory Liberty Loan.

The United States Congress has appropriated $1,000,000,000 to guarantee the American farmer $2.26 a bushel for his 1919 wheat crop, a price which is $1 a bushel more than he might reasonably expect if American wheat was thrown on the market to compete with Argentine, Australian and Indian wheat. The American farmer has responded to the government's guarantee by pledging the production of millions of bushels more wheat than he has ever grown before, according to officials of the United States Food Administration's Grain Corporation.

The American farmer has never been in better financial condition, the officials say. The report of the Federal Reserve Board shows that the 1918 farm crop added $17,000,000,000 to the wealth of the country. The corn crop alone put $3,528,313,000 in the farmer's pocket. Hay added $1,500,000,000 to the farmer's income. Apples brought him $230,000,000. Oats sold on the farm for something over $1,000,000,000.

The guaranteed price of wheat will not only assure the farmer a profit on wheat, but will also sustain the prices on other farm products. Food Administration officials point out. With the return of an abundance of labor, the farmer is assured a highly prosperous year.

With the surplus the farmer has from his last abundant harvest and with his present season's return in a large measure guaranteed, the Federal Reserve Board looks to the farmer for a generous support of the coming Victory Liberty Loan. The securities to be offered will merit his attention as first class investments, aside from their patriotic appeal.

"Sixty thousand American lads, many of them farmer boys, gave their lives for the freedom of democracy," said an official of the United States Food Administration. "Had the war continued throughout next summer, as our military chiefs believed it would, two hundred thousand Americans and many more hundreds of thousands of their compatriots would have been sleeping in Flanders' fields and beneath the sod of France and Lorraine."

"That these lives were spared was due in a large measure to the lavish expenditure of the United States government in assembling men and munitions to crush Germany. Most of the men and even less of the material of war was never used. Yet the mighty preparations of our government forced the Germans to cry 'Kamerad'."

"The American farmer's sons are coming home for the most part unscathed. For this the American farmer is duly grateful. From his abundance from the past year and from his assured prosperity for the coming season, he should and will set a new record, a Thanksgiving record, in his subscription to the Victory Loan."

LET US STAND BY DEAR OLD UNCLE SAM.

Uncle Sam is asking for a Victory Liberty Loan to clinch the stupendous demonstration that moral force, not military force, is to rule the world. We must care for our army of occupation and bring it home; we must reconstruct and rehabilitate those who have been wounded and blinded in defense of the right. This is to be a Loan of Thanksgiving, and the response should be more hearty and joyous than the response to any of the preceding Loans. Uncle Sam has helped to save the world for Liberty and Civilization. Let us give him the wherewithal to complete the job.

"Peace must be financed as well as war, and the initial stages of peace may be found even more expensive than war. Therefore, get behind the Victory Liberty Loan when it comes," —Secretary Glass.

AMERICA NO PLACE FOR THE PESSIMIST

Secretary of the Treasury Glass Says These Should Be Days of Rejoicing, of Confidence and High Resolve.

"A thing difficult of understanding is the reactionary spirit which, in some quarters, seems to have seized hold of American business," declared Secretary of the Treasury Glass in a recent interview on the coming Victory Liberty Loan. "It manifests itself in a gloomy and pessimistic view of the future in no way justified by conditions, present or discernible, and in a disposition to cavil at the further expenditures the government is under the necessity of making in order to liquidate the war."

Secretary Glass declared he saw no reason whatever for dark foreboding. On the contrary, he was firm in the belief that these should be days of rejoicing, of confidence and high resolve. "America is the least injured of any of the nations which took active part in the death grapple with autocracy on the soil of France and Flanders," he continued. "Except for the 60,000 who gave up their lives and the thousands who are returning, maimed or wounded, the United States has made no real sacrifice."

"Is the American spirit less courageous than the spirit of the French or the Belgians? France, sorrowing but undaunted, has set about to repair the wreck the ruthless invaders wrought, and refuses to view the future darkly. Belgium, stripped of all save honor, looks forward to the day when a greater nation will arise on the ruins of the old. Shall America, then, bend and groan under the imaginings of a burden which it should bear lightly, if felt at all?"

"The coming issue of government bonds has been designated the Victory Liberty Loan. It seems to me that it might well be termed also the Thanksgiving Loan, for if people had cause for Thanksgiving, we are that people."

"Those Americans who today are among the carpers and quibblers are not worthy of the name of Americans. They are not worthy the boys they sent forth to make, if need be, the supreme sacrifice that liberty might live."

"Now that the coming of peace has restored their sons to them, will they tighten up their purse strings and adopt an attitude which seems to say, 'The war is over; I did my part while the fighting was in progress, and now let the government go hang.' I do not think so. I believe that when the next loan is offered they will understand its necessity and will gladly meet its requirements."

LET US DO OUR SHARE

Put the Finishing Touches to the German Dream of World Conquest—It Takes Money to Hold the Obsequies of Kaiserism.

Here is a good answer for the fellow who says: "I bought the bonds of the previous loans, but why should I save and buy more?"

The answer is concerned with sickness and death. Fortunately, the disease is the German dream of world conquest, and the funeral is that of the Kaiser's ambitions.

Now, in the average American home, where sickness and death befall, the head of the family first pays for physicians, medicines and nurses. But when he has gone thus far, he does not stop. He cannot. He must go on and call in the undertaker. He must finish the sad business.

And so it is in the family of nations. We have been stricken with war—and now we must pay for it. Happily, the corpse, as has been said, is the German ambition. The United States and our allies must pay for the funeral.

The first, second, and third Liberty loans brought together and trained the army of physicians and nurses that was to combat the disease. The fourth loan transported them to the house of sickness and carried them through to the deathbed of the Russian autocrat. But we still have to pay the last bill of imperialism's passing, and the laying away of that dread corpse has been an unavoidable expense.

The man who says: "I bought the other bonds, but I'll be damned if I'll save now to buy more," is as illogical as a father who would say: "I paid for the doctor and nurses and the medicines, but I'll be damned if I'll have a funeral."

Let us do our share in helping along the obsequies of Kaiserism. It will be the best investment any of us can make.

IS THERE A DOUBTING THOMAS?

Is there any man in this country who is afraid to buy Victory Liberty bonds? Is there anyone who fears that he may not get his money back?

If there is, he would do well to peruse the following table, which Uncle Sam has prepared for him, showing the worth of each of the important nations in the war, together with the total of their national debts:

Estimated National Wealth	Present National Debt
Great Britain	$30,000,000,000
France	25,000,000,000
Russia	40,000,000,000
Italy	25,000,000,000
Japan	25,000,000,000
Germany	80,000,000,000
Austria-Hungary	25,000,000,000
United States	250,000,000,000

Any Doubting Thomas after reading that table, will readily appreciate that United States government bonds offer the safest investment in the world.

UNCLE SAM: "HERE'S THE BILL! YOU MUST PAY IT THROUGH VICTORY LIBERTY BONDS."

A Business Proposition

By WILL PAYNE.

Secretary Glass said the Victory Liberty Loan should appeal to the patriotism of the people of the United States and not be merely a business proposition.

Isn't that so? It was no business proposition that sent two million young Americans to France and made nearly two million more give up their time for more than a year to train for going. This Victory Loan is to pay for equipping them, sending them over, keeping them there and fetching them back. Will you look one of them in the face and say, "As soon as you stopped fighting and I had given you three hearty cheers you became just a business proposition?"

But the loan is a business proposition, too—this way:

You are Uncle Sam—a hundred odd million of you, individually. Says Uncle Sam to himself, "I owe several million dollars—owe it now on due and maturing obligations that must be met to the last cent. My credit is practically unlimited. I can borrow that money of the banks. They've got to lend it to me. That will mean a huge inflation of bank credit—bank loans all swollen up with my paper—banks consequently in a poorer condition to take care of the ordinary business of the country."

But if I do borrow the money of the banks I've got to pay them back some time. There are only two ways in which a man can finally get out of debt. One way is to sell some property and pay up; the other way is to earn more than he spends, saving the difference. I have no property to sell. Can't sell the White House, or the national forests. The second way is the only way for me. "Shall I borrow the money from the banks now, and thereby put off the real settlement, or shall I—hundred million individual Uncle Sams—right now, say out of their incomes and lend the saving to the collective Uncle Sam, thereby enabling him to pay the bills and wipe the slate, with no inflation, leaving the banks in sound condition to meet the needs of ordinary business?"

That is the question. It is your debt. You owe the money. Finally you've got to pay it in some fashion. To lend it on the banks now is the most expensive way, temporarily, to dispose of it. To save, individually, is the best and cheapest way. Even waiting patriotism, it comes down to a business proposition. Only the savings and subscriptions of the whole public can take care of the loan without inflation.

THE FUN OF SAVING MONEY.

The fun of saving money! Best fun in the world, once you get started. Great game, isn't it, where every player wins, always, and no one could possibly lose.

What's the fun consist of? What constitutes the fun of any good game? The planning, the struggle, the contest; the spirit of competition, emulation, excitement; the rush, the climax, the triumph of making good.

What's the cost, the price of admission? Just the cost of any good game; time, energy, the letting go of nonessentials for the joy of realized ambition and success.

What's the reward? The game and its gaining. The bliss of fighting, climbing, fighting and climbing to win. What's the method? Begin and keep going. Make a start, set a goal and attain it. Start again and make the same goal in shorter period. Set a new and sterner goal and time limit and beat the record again.

Uncle Sam can't be beat as a partner, game credits foot up before you know it, and it doesn't cost much to sit in.

VICTORY LOAN AN APPEAL TO OUR BUSINESS SENSE

As a Business Proposition No Man Can Afford Not to Subscribe to Full Limit of His Ability.

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS, Author of "Tarzan of the Apes."

There are an infinite number of excellent reasons why we should support the Victory Liberty Loan.

The finest sentiments we possess must prompt us to subscribe to this loan even more freely than we did to the others. The government must get money or it would not ask us for it. The man who was prompted to lead in the past through fear that if he did not the Germans might get over here and make it unpleasant for him is mighty "yellow" if he will not subscribe, now that the danger is past.

Our response to previous loans indicated that we were thoroughly in accord with the principles for which we were fighting, and by our response we authorized, the expenditure of the sums necessary properly to prosecute the war. These enormous expenses must continue for some time. The obligations involved must not be repudiated. They are our obligations as individuals and we must look upon them as such. It is not only a matter of necessity; it is a matter of personal honor for us to meet these obligations promptly and gladly.

On the other hand, there is in the Victory loan an appeal to our business sense as well as to our patriotism. There is the appeal to self-interest, for the loan is not to be without profit to us. We are given an opportunity to invest in an absolutely safe security, and we will receive a good rate of interest. As a business proposition no man can afford not to subscribe to the full limit of his ability.

And there is another reason why we should subscribe every cent that we can, rake and scrape together. It is this: If the government cannot raise the necessary funds by the sale of Liberty bonds, it must do it by direct taxation. The government has the power to tax us to meet these obligations; and if we are taxed we not only will get no interest but we will never get the principal back again.

It seems to me that both the wisdom and necessity for fully and immediately subscribing this Fifth Liberty Loan must be obvious to anyone whose mentality is greater than that of a child of ten. We are supposed to be an intelligent people, capable of governing ourselves and others. We pride ourselves upon our business acumen, upon our energy, and upon our patriotism. In the Victory Liberty Loan we shall have an opportunity to prove to the world that we are better than raincoats, and that we are fully deserving of the estimate which we have placed upon ourselves as a people.

The time is here. The opportunity is here. The eyes of the world are upon us—upon you. What the world shall think of us depends not upon the action of others but upon what you do—YOU.

UNCLE SAM'S BILLS MUST BE PAID

Up to America to Show World That It Does What It Promises to Do.

The argument, sometimes heard, that there should be no need of another Liberty loan, because the war is over, indicates there are some persons so short-sighted and unpatriotic that they are forgetting the grave dangers that not so long ago threatened civilization.

One of the terrors of the past struggle was the frightful havoc created by the enemy on the high seas, which may be illustrated by an incident, one of ten thousand similar ones. It was told by a stranded sailor, a lone survivor of a torpedoed ship. He related how a German submarine, after sinking the ship without warning, came to the surface and helped to "rescue" the few who were swimming or drifting about in the water. They were permitted to cling to the submarine—in fact, to find refuge on its deck. An empty rowboat floated by, and the commander of the "sub" ordered the survivors to avail themselves of it, because in five minutes the U-boat would submerge.

The rowboat had no oars. There were no provisions aboard, no shelter against storms in this unseaworthy shell. It was half-filled with water—salt water—which the survivors had to scoop out with their bare hands. The captain and his men descended into the interior of the "sub." The hatches were closed and gradually the instrument of destruction sank out of sight, leaving the craft, with its human cargo at the mercy of the waves. This happened in the middle of the Atlantic ocean.

There is only one thing that can save the world from an upheaval far more disastrous than that which we have gone through. That is for America and the American people to hold to law and order, to abide by free institutions, to rebuild, to succor and comfort those who have been bowed down by the terrors of organized intolerance. It is for us to give more, pay more, do more. It is for us to prove that a wrong acknowledged becomes an obligation and that America does whatever it promises to do.

This can be accomplished only by patriotically getting back the Victory Liberty loan and backing it up to the very limit of our financial ability. Uncle Sam's bills must be paid and the boys brought home. Until then the job won't be finished.

The Debt

By RANDALL PARRISH.

A young fellow came back to our town the other day, struggling along on crutches; he had left one leg in France. A friend met him, and said sympathetically: "I'm mighty sorry, Fred, you lost your leg." The lad looked at him and smiled. "I didn't lose my leg, Charlie," he replied quietly. "I gave it."

That is just what they have been doing, those splendid lads of ours. They have been giving their legs, their arms, their eyes, their very lives, that we might have our homes, our shops, our farms, that we might live in peace, in prosperity, in freedom of thought and action.

Don't we owe them anything? Haven't we a debt unpaid to the dead in France, to the maimed and crippled, who are coming home from the battle front?

That is the appeal of the forthcoming Victory Liberty loan. It is a debt we owe to the aviator who went crashing down in flames; to the doughboy who went cheering over the top through a rain of shrapnel; to the gunner who fell with the lanyard in his hand.

We can never pay it—no! Money does not work that miracle. Just down the street from here a flag hangs in the window of a little cottage containing two golden stars. What is my money, or yours, balanced against the priceless gift of the heart-broken father and mother there? If every man in this town should throw his dollars into the scale, those lives would weigh the most.

Cheer and welcome those who return; honor their manhood, and thus pay to them, in a small measure, the debt you owe their service.

But do not forget those others, who will not return—the voiceless dead. You owe a greater debt to them. They died with faith in you.

The war in its larger sense is not over, and our duty to support our soldiers is not over until they are all home. The Victory Liberty Loan is to be used for the purpose of maintaining them overseas as an army of occupation and bringing them back.

"IF" OR "SUPPOSING"

By GEORGE ADE.

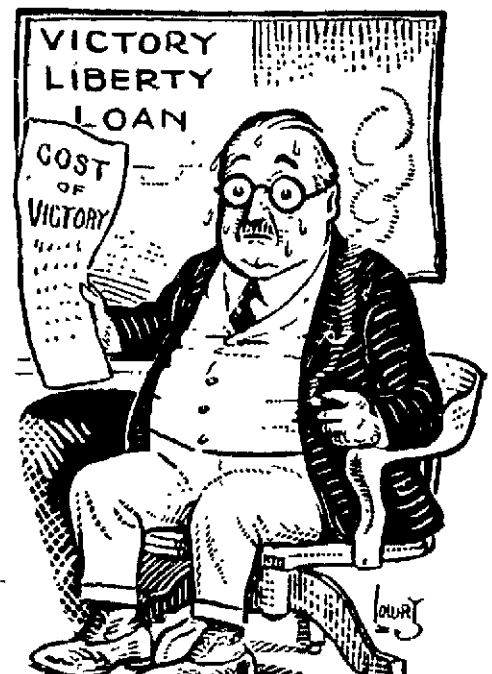

On October 1, 1918, you, being a wise man and having read with care the opinions of military experts, knew:

1. That the great war was going to last until far into the summer of 1919.

2. That the casualties among the American soldiers would be increasingly heavy up to the final moment of fighting.

3. That, as a result of the growing magnitude of the world struggle, the government of the United States would call upon us for at least three huge bond subscriptions during 1919.

If you believed otherwise you were in the minority, for the cabinets of all the nations united against Germany, and the bankers, and the shipbuilders, and the masters of food supplies thought they knew that Germany would stand out for many months.

"Can You Be Patriotic When the Band's Not Playing?"—George Ade.

Now then, to suppose a case. If some one had come to you on October 1, with a proposition to end the war within six weeks by a complete and overwhelming victory on condition that you would subscribe liberally for Victory bonds in the spring of 1919, you would have replied as follows:

"Say, end the war this fall and stop the killing and maiming of our boys, and put the Kaiser out of business and compel Germany to accept our terms and let the American soldiers begin to head for home, and I'll pledge my last dollar for the loan that is needed to clean up expenses."

That's how you felt on October 1, 1918, and now that all the miracles have come to pass, are you going to be grateful or forgetful?

You are now asked to help finance (by merely lending on favorable terms and not giving) the final and gigantic expenditures which brought victory months ahead of the schedule.

If we had lost the war, what would you be paying this spring and to whom? How's your memory? Did you feel certain, just a year ago today, that Germany could be prevented from dictating terms to the whole world?

How about a loyal parent who refuses to pay a doctor bill because the child gets well instead of dying?

When you tackle a big job do you stick to the finish, or do you go fishing and permit some more dependable man to come in and put on the roof and chimney?

Do you experience symptoms of mortality only when the doctor is seated at the bedside?

When you start to go somewhere, do you travel four-fifths of the way and then stop by the wayside?

Can you be patriotic when the band is not playing?

We are setting up a big job, so don't queer your war record at the eleventh hour by being a quitter.

UNCLE SAM PAYING HIS DEBTS

Government's Credit Standing High, Because of Rapidity of Payment of His Obligations—Now a Creditor Nation.

If you were asked to lend money to a private citizen you would ask: "What are this man's prospects? Is his business showing a satisfactory growth? Is he paying off his debts and piling up a surplus?"

When you are asked to lend your money to Uncle Sam you can safely ask the same questions. The American government soon will ask for another great loan. Therefore, now is the time to satisfy yourself that Uncle Sam will be an A-1 debtor.

The first thing that will impress you, when you come to investigate the old gentleman's credit standing, is the rapidity with which he has been paying off his debts and becoming himself a creditor. In 1914, when the war broke out, the nation owed four billion dollars ($4,000,000,000) abroad and had to pay interest on that amount every year.

Now all but about one-fourth of this big debt has been paid off, and the government of the United States has lent abroad a total of ten billion dollars ($10,000,000,000). Instead of paying interest to Europe today, Uncle Sam is now in a position to ask and receive from Europe a total of at least five hundred million dollars ($500,000,000) a year in interest. That sum from across the water each year will pay more than half the interest the government will owe to its people on all the Liberty bond issues, including the fifth.

Uncle Sam certainly can show a good set of books. His credit is A-1 with every credit agency in the country.

Normal School Representatives Appear Before Legislative Committee Regarding Pay

Prof. G. E. Culver of the Stevens Point Normal faculty, Prof. A. H. Sanford of La Crosse, formerly of Stevens Point, and other normal school teachers of the state appeared before the joint finance committee of the legislature on Tuesday of last week in favor of salary increases for teachers in normal schools. Details of the hearing were given in a dispatch from Madison as follows:

An emergency increase in the salaries of normal school teachers, which would cost for the remainder of the fiscal year $34,500, was urged before the joint finance committee, Tuesday afternoon, by a delegation of normal school representatives. President F. A. Cotton, La Crosse, declared that this advance in salary was necessary to keep up the teaching morale of Wisconsin normal school teachers. Others appearing for the bill were: E. O. Finkenhinder, Milwaukee normal school; Edgar F. Riley, Platteville; W. S. Watson, Whitewater; C. M. Barr, Milwaukee; A. H. Sanford, La Crosse; Rose Swart, Oshkosh, and G. E. Culver, Stevens Point.

"Wisconsin normal school salaries are $500 below Michigan salaries, $300 below Minnesota and Illinois salaries," declared E. O. Finkenhinder. "Wisconsin's best paid normal school is $824 per instructor below a typical Michigan normal school. Of 371 teachers in Wisconsin's normal school system, 132 receive only $1,200 or less; fifty-one receive only $1,000 or less."

"The United States railroad commission states that no employee should receive less than $1,400. Railroad positions commanding the same wage as the present average of normal school positions in Wisconsin—$1,489—were raised twenty-three per cent in wage in 1918, and are now receiving $1,832. The Wisconsin normal schools' average salaries are only $13 above the average in 1912—an increase of but $2 per year. At this rate, to make an increase equal to that granted by the railroad commission at one time, the Wisconsin normal schools would take 111 years."

Rose Swart, Oshkosh, declared that the Wisconsin normal school standard of efficiency would not be maintained without raising salaries. A. H. Sanford declared that the cost of living had risen sixty per cent in the last four years and that normal school salaries had risen only six per cent. C. M. Barr, Milwaukee, said that to meet the present high cost of living by but one-half, salaries would have to be increased $880 per teacher.

"At the opening of the hearing, the chairman of the committee, A. H. Wilkinson, Bayfield, read an opinion from Attorney General Blaine, who held that the bill, so far as it sought to increase the salaries of teachers now under contract, was illegal. Mr. Barr agreed to have a legal brief presented to the committee later on the matter. G. E. Culver, Stevens Point, read extracts from newspaper editorials showing a public sentiment in favor of the increase. Cotton claimed there was an exodus of the best teachers to other states, because of low salaries."

BUY PURE BRED PIGS

More pure bred pigs are being brought to Portage county through assistance rendered by J. W. Dunegan, vice president of the First National bank of Stevens Point. Virgil O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Brien of Linwood, has received three pure bred Berkshire sows and one pure bred boar of the same breed. These four animals are the start of a pen. The young man is an enthusiastic live stock raiser and has been represented in the three calf clubs conducted by the First National bank. P. O. Virum, prominent farmer of the town of Carson, has purchased two pure bred Berkshire sows, which will be shipped to him at an early date.

WAS WORTH THE PRICE

Although he was severely gassed while serving as a truck driver for the Y.M.C.A. in France, Frank Russell, of Park Falls, brother of Mrs. J. E. Burns of this city and of Mrs. K. J. Marceau of Rudolph, is glad he went. "I have just about got over the effects of the gas that I had presented to me by Fritz last October at Vilcey-en-Haye, in the Meuse-Moselle region," said Mr. Russell in a letter to The Gazette. "At that time I would not have needed the experience and trip for the price I paid; especially the trip to France and New York to Liverpool on a British transport. Was with the troops on board ship 12 days and mixing with them was sure something never to be forgotten."

STAPLETON MAY QUIT

Former Stevens Point Resident Considering Resigning As Rhinelander Postmaster

Matt. Stapleton, former Stevens Point resident, may resign as postmaster at Rhinelander in order to devote his time to business interests. Mr. Stapleton was appointed to the office April 24, 1914.

According to the Rhinelander News North, Mr. Stapleton said, regarding his plans: "I have a large interest in 23,000 acres of timber, farming and mineral lands, being associated in these holdings with E. O. Brown, John Moen, Francis Coleman, the Central Trust Co. and the late John Barnes estate. The death of Mr. Barnes makes it necessary for someone to look after the sales of timber, lands, trespassing and fires. L. M. Hanks, president of the Central Wisconsin Trust Co., has made me a flattering offer to take charge of these lands and I feel that it is for my own best interests to accept. The next two years, I have every reason to believe, will be boomers in the land and timber market."

Of Mr. Stapleton's record as postmaster the News North said: "He has endeavored to give good service and according to his own statement has been at the postoffice every morning at 6 o'clock for the last five years."

TO KEEP UNIFORMS

The bill allowing soldiers, sailors and marines to retain their uniforms and other equipment has been signed by President Wilson, thereby becoming a law.

HEAVIEST ON RECORD

Soo-Line Moving More Forest Products Than Ever Before in History of the Road

The heaviest movement of forest products in the history of the Chicago division of the Soo line is now in progress, according to officials at Stevens Point division headquarters. Pulpwood, logs and wood are being shipped in great quantities from northern points. At Superior alone from 150 to 200 cars of pulpwood are being handled daily, for shipment to Stevens Point, Grand Rapids, Tomahawk, Ladysmith, Nekeosa and Appleton.

The unprecedented volume of business is attributed to various causes. One reason is that the Soo line has the shortest line from the head of the lakes and under government control, shipments are routed through the most natural channels. Another reason is that operators are taking advantage of the good sleighing to get their forest products to market. Still another reason is the plentiful supply of cars.

RETURNING WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Doyle of Shawmut, Mont., left on their return trip to the west Tuesday morning after a visit of five weeks with relatives in this city and county. Mr. Doyle is a brother of Richard and Peter M. Doyle of Stockton, in which township he was born and grew to young manhood. His wife, who was Miss Rose Tovey, is a sister of Misses Nora and Mary Tovey of Stockton and of James Tovey of this city. Ideal weather conditions prevailed in Montana last winter and the prospects for a bountiful wheat crop next season are good.

BUYS STOCKTON FARM

James Tovey is now owner of the Jacob Wyczek farm of 80 acres, located near Stockton station, which he purchased last week. Mr. Wyczek and family, who have lived on the place for many years, will remain there for the coming season at least. Mr. Tovey has been a resident of this city for the past year, prior to which time he was engaged in farming in Carson, and represented that township as its chairman. The gentleman also has extensive property interests near Shawmut, Montana, and will leave for the west within a couple of weeks to begin the starting of spring work.

BECOME DISTRICT AGENTS

Emery L. Mangold of Wausau spent last Thursday in this city on a business trip and found time to visit a number of local friends. Mr. Mangold lately resigned as state organizer for the Catholic Order of Foresters to become district agent for the Northwestern Life Insurance Co. of Milwaukee, his territory comprising seven counties—Marathon, Portage, Wood, Vilas, Forest, Langlade and Lincoln. He is associated with Melvin Kraus, formerly of Marshfield and a son of R. E. Kraus. Both young men are hustlers and success is sure to attend them.

SOLDIERS TREATED FREE

A. S. O. Hospital Makes Plans For Reconstruction Department For Foreign Service Men

Two months ago it was announced that the A. S. O. Hospital at Kirksville, Mo., would give free treatment and hospital care to all returning osteopaths from the army or navy for the next two years. It has been decided by the management to extend the offer to this extent. Any returned foreign service soldier or sailor, anywhere in the country, during the next year, can get free surgical, orthopedic or osteopathic treatment, but in case they will have to be in the hospital will have to pay their board and room.

Even this expense will be free to all members of Company C, who went out from Adair or adjoining counties, and of course to all students and graduates of the school. This offer holds good for the years 1919 and 1920. This is to be an important department of the school and hospital, and men especially trained for this work will be employed in addition to the regular force.

SOLDIERS RETURN WEST

Two special trains of thirteen cars each passed through here over the Soo-line Sunday morning, having on board a total of 918 members of the 63rd Coast Artillery, enroute from New York city to Camp Lewis, Wash., for mustering out. The boys returned from France a week before, but none of them had got into the real fighting; over there they were a husky-looking bunch of soldiers and would undoubtedly have given a good account of themselves if the opportunity presented.

Marshfield News: The city council at its regular March meeting started the ball rolling for a rousing reception for the boys of Co. A and the 127 Infantry band upon their return home from the watch on the Rhine and the battle fields of glory in France, which is expected to be in May.

Jacob Mueller, editor of the Dodge County Pioneer at Mayville, pleaded guilty to two counts of a federal indictment charging him with failure to file translations of articles printed in German. He was fined $25 on each count. The articles related to German victories on the eastern front.

Emil Gordow of Westfield has had the pleasure of visiting his mother's home in Germany, where he is serving in the American army of occupation. He left Germany when he was 14. He volunteered for service with the Portage National Guard company and served at the front.

At a meeting held in New London to consider the matter of overcoming the damage from floods of the Wolf river, a plan was submitted by Prof. E. R. Jones of Madison whereby 120,000 acres of land would be benefited. The plan is to straighten and build dikes on the Wolf river from Shiocton to Poygan.

James L. Murphy of Oconto was made deaf by an attack of scarlet fever when he was nine years old. He has been employed for 23 years by the Holt Lumber Co. as woodsman. Waking one morning he heard the wood in the stove cracking and the men in the bunk house snoring. He can now hear perfectly.

When the ice broke up on Green Bay fishermen had some exciting experiences. Harry Sawdo and William Sneider of Little Sturgeon were carried across the bay on an ice flow and had a narrow escape from death. After spending 24 hours on the ice they landed near Marinette. Several thousand dollars worth of nets were lost when the ice broke up.

Wausau is to have a great homecoming celebration in honor of Marathon county men who served in the armed forces of the nation during the war with Germany. It will be in the form of a peace jubilee and will cost approximately $6,000, which amount will be paid mostly by concessionaires. J. A. Darnab, theatrical producer, has been engaged to put on the festival.

J. J. Normington visited his son, Robert, at Minneapolis Saturday and Sunday. The latter is enrolled at the University of Minnesota.

WAS IN MOTOR SERVICE

Lorentz Martini was formally mustered out of military service last Thursday and left Baltimore, Md., that day for his home in this city. Mr. Martini joined the army last summer and was shortly afterwards assigned to the motor transport department and had since been located at Camp Holabird, a few miles out of Baltimore. The field of many hundreds of acres is literally covered with motor trucks, representing values running into the millions. Most of these trucks are brand new, but what use they will be put to now is a problem.

LIEUT. COL. TACK

Information which is believed to be reliable, comes from France that Major Willis J. Tack is slated for promotion to lieutenant colonel and will get this new distinction within a few weeks. The young officer is a native Stevens Point, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. A. Tack, now residents of Spencer. He graduated from West Point a few years ago with the rank of second lieutenant, rising rapidly to first lieutenant and captain, and when only 25 years of age, was made a major, being the youngest officer of this rating in the national army. Major Tack is now instructor in an officers' training school at Coblenz, Germany.

"CHOOSEY KIDS" MEALS

"It's a 'choosey' lot of children for the most part, and that accounts for a great deal of their undernourishment." The speaker was one of the directors of the recently organized "Nutritional Clinic" which is attracting considerable attention in Milwaukee.

To be admitted to the Nutritional Clinic a child must be ten or more pounds under normal weight for his size and age. After a thorough medical examination by a children's specialist a group of fifty has been selected who will be worked upon to see to what extent they can be brought to normal standards inside of four months.

"One little chap declined bread and butter, stating that he had never eaten them. Another said that he couldn't eat meat and potatoes. Obviously these two need instruction more than they do drugs or other medical treatment. But the parents need attention more than do the children. I am reminded in this connection of the statement of a prominent children's specialist who says that in most children's diseases it is the parents rather than the children who require the attention of the doctor."

Most children are naturally "choosey" if they are permitted to be. Few have natural taste for such vegetables as string beans, squash, turnips and carrots. They get notional, too. For no reason worth considering they will turn against this or that article of food and allowed to go uncorrected will show prejudices which are unreasoning and unbalanced as the delusions of an insane person. I have in mind the case of a woman who becomes sick at the mere thought of biting a raisin in bread or cake.

Much of the backwardness of children in school and their feeble resistance to disease result from partial starvation. This is not confined to the poverty stricken by any means. Among the very poor failure to expend the limited means upon the best foods is responsible for more starvation than actual want. Even with our present high prices, intelligence is needed more than raw food.

Nobody has more need of backbones than have parents. The eating habits of their children are worth fighting for patiently and persistently three times a day and three hundred and sixty-five days a year.
